

RMRG Seminar Series

Regional Music Education

Thursday 11 April 2024
5.00pm AEST, via ZOOM

Dr WENDY BROOKS Young Regional Conservatorium

As CEO of Young Regional School of Music, Wendy, a music educator since the 1980s, has taught and lectured in Sydney. Her postgraduate studies focused on creative arts and music in media. Wendy advocates for accessible music education in regional areas.

Dr HELEEN DU PLESSIS University of Otago

Dr. Heleen du Plessis, with an extensive international music career, teaches cello and music pedagogy at the University of Otago. Her research focuses on performers' muscular awareness. Heleen is actively involved in community music projects in New Zealand.

Dr ALANA BLACKBURN University of New England

Dr Alana Blackburn coordinates music courses and partnerships at UNE. An acclaimed recorder player, she has performed and recorded extensively. Her research focuses on ensemble leadership and regional music history, with notable contributions to online music education.

The RMRG Seminar Series brings together industry, practitioners, academics and policy makers to discuss aspects of regional music. We will explore the role of music in regional communities and economies, its relationship to national and international contexts, and ways to facilitate regional music development.
